THE FORAGER'S REPORT - 13/05/19

Hi Chefs ,

Some new products in this week's Foragers Report; Chicken Of The Wood has made an appearance in Hungary and will be at HQ this week so keep an eye on the socials!

Those whispers that Scottish girolle could be with us at Smith & Brock in 4-5 weeks haven't disappeared so get in the queue and drop me an email so I can ring your buzzer when it lands at HQ: daniel@smithandbrock.com. As I said last week there are some really beautiful gradable Portuguese and now have seen some smaller select girolle from turkey, early, I know. Morel quaternities are still falling as predicted but quality is still beautiful.

Mousseron are in their perfect state and great on price also, a small yet flavourful mushroom which are a stunning. St Georges from Turkey are also flourishing like the mousseron. Wild garlic is still holding its own here at Smith & Brock with no signs of deteriorating.

We have started to work with a specialist forager company who have an amazing range of wild syrups, cordials and salt in their range which we now stock and are on our availability list. Personal favourites are sweet cicely syrup and elderflower syrup, also the hogweed salt is a magical alternative to the ever popular celery salt. Cauliflower fungus still proving extremely popular. Some new flowers on the block this week - sweet cicely flowers, red haw flowers and forget me knots.

If you'd like images and descriptions, do hit the follow on our socials.
